

Your University of Alaska Email Account

UA students are assigned a university e-mail account which is used to communicate with students regarding important university matters. You are responsible for checking this account regularly or forwarding your university email account to the email account you check regularly. You are also responsible to act upon or respond to the email received from the university when specifically requested to do so.

Starting June 1, 2006, UA departments will begin phasing in a plan to communicate with current students electronically exclusively through their University of Alaska email accounts created for you at the UAA.

How do I find out what my UA e-mail account is?

Visit the email lookup page for the campus you are attending:
